DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

(1)

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

(2)

Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding the claims, the phrase "paper-like" renders the claim(s) indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "-like"), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Further, it is not clear whether "paper-like" is referring to the material of the protective layer or is referring to the form of the medium of exchange (i.e., that it is in the physical form of paper currency).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(3)

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35

U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Fromson et al. 4,507,349.

Fromson et al. disclose a method of making security media such as currency comprising: providing first and second layers of clear thermoplastic; and providing between the layers a layer of precious metal such as gold such that currency would be perceived as having some inherent value due to the precious metal content. The layers are thin and flexible so as to facilitate carrying on one's person, handling and folding. The currency may be formed by laminating three layers or by metallizing one of the thermoplastic layers. Two layers of different metal could be applied on atop the other such that upon lamination, the currency would present the appearance of one metal, silver, on one surface and a second metal, gold, on the other surface. The thickness of the media is from 2-8 mils (002-0.008 inches). Magnetic encoding may be utilized to render the currency difficult to forge or counterfeit, and visual designs, images embossing may be imparted to one or both thermoplastic layers to provide an index of relative value to the currency (col. 1-6).

Further, by making currency by providing a layer of precious metal between thin and flexible layers of clear thermoplastic so as to facilitate carrying, handling and folding, the currency having some inherent value due to the precious metal content, a "paper-like" precious metal medium of exchange having at least the value of the precious metal contained therein is obviously provided.

Further, by providing one layer of precious metal atop another for lamination between thermoplastic layers, a quantity of precious metal is obviously applied to a substrate, as claimed.

Further, by providing the currency with magnetic encoding to render the currency difficult to counterfeit and with visual designs, images and embossing to provide relative value of the currency, the currency is obviously provided with an anti-counterfeiting measure and color code and denomination marking to differentiate value, as claimed.

Allowable Subject Matter

(5)

Claims 13-19 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The reference disclose laminating precious metal between substrates.
